CAN YOU GUESS.

Here's a Chance to Make
Ten Dollars Easy.

All You Have to Do Is to Pick the Winners in the Coming Primary.

Just for the interest attached to a guessing contest and to put a little more interest into the coming campaign for County officers, THE NEWS will give its readers a chance to make ten dollars and have a little fun at guessing on the side.

To the person making the first nearest correct guess of the winners in the Democratic Primary Election which will be held in this county on Saturday, June 1st, 1901, THE NEWS will present a ten dollar gold piece. The conditions of the contest are simple. Old subscribers and new subscribers who pay $2 on their subscriptions will each be entitled to a guess, and to as many guesses as they pay year's subscription. If no one guesses correctly, the first one who guesses the closest to all the winners will receive the ten dollars.

You intend to pay your subscription anyway, and you may as well pay before the first day of June and have a chance of getting your money back, besides gaining the distinction of knowing more about the political situation than your neighbors.

Each guess will be registered when received as to the exact day, hour and minute. No one will be permitted to see how any one else has guessed. In guessing only the offices on the ballot are to be considered.

PECULIAR CIRCUMSTANCES.

Two Wives Each Want to Qualify
as Administrator of Dead
Husband's Estate.

The present term of Circuit Court now in session has a case of more than ordinary interest before it. On the 4th day of April, 1889, Oscar H. Lawless and Mamie C. Tune were married in Nicholas county, Kentucky. They lived together some time as man and wife, and a child was born this union which is now ten years of age.

About five years ago Lawless and his wife had a misunderstanding of some kind and he came to Bourbon. After residing in this county a few years, on the 26th of January, 1900, he married Miss Lula Hipshire, daughter of Lee Hipshire, living just over the Fayette county line near Loradale. Wife No. 1, who is still residing in Nicholas county, through her attorney, Col. Tom Owens, of Carlisle, filed a suit for divorce in the Bourbon Circuit Court, but Lawless died a day or two before the Sheriff called at his house to serve the summons.

Of course, that put a stop to the divorce proceeding, and Mrs. Lawless No. 1 came in and wanted to qualify as Administratrix of her deceased husband's estate. After some delay, Mrs. Lawless No. 1 had the Bourbon County Court to appoint Harmon Stitt Administrator of the Lawless estate. Mr. Stitt was unable to determine which was the legal wife. He therefore filed a petition in the Circuit Court, stating that Lawless was married to Miss Tune in 1889 and to Miss Hipshire in 1900, but that he had no knowledge or information sufficient to state whether or not Lawless had ever been divorced from wife No. 1, and he made both of the wives parties-defendants to the action.

Wife No. 1 came forward and set up a claim for herself and daughter to all of the property left by her husband, and Mrs. Lawless No. 2 filed an answer, stating that she and Lawless were married in Covington, and that she did not know that he had ever been married, and asked the Court to require wife No. 1 to say whether or not a divorce had ever been granted or if she had ever been served with a summons citing her to answer to a divorce proceeding.

In the certificate filed by wife No. 1 the name of the decedent appears as "Lawless," while in the certificate filed by wife No. 2 the name appears "Lalls." Wife No. 1 follows the name as written in her certificate, and wife No. 2 follows the name as written in her certificate, except that she spells it "Lalls" instead of one middle L. Yet, that both women had the same husband there is no doubt.

Relatives of wife No. 1, from Nicholas county were with Lawless during his last sickness, had known him all his life and testify that there is no mistake about it. Wife No. 2 admits that Lolis, Lolis and Lawless are all one and the same person, but she simply wants wife No. 1 to say whether or not he had obtained a divorce. She seems confident that her husband was a divorced man, but is unable to find any record of the proceeding either in Bourbon or the Nicholas Courts.

A singular feature is that a man could come from an adjoining county and live within sixteen miles of the people among whom he was born and reared, marry again, and neither wife ever hear of the other.

Relatives of Mrs. Lawless No. 1, residing in the vicinity of Loradale knew that Lawless was married, and although they visited the old neighborhood frequently and had friends from home visit them, it seems that no word was ever carried from wife to the other. Both wife No. 1 and wife No. 2 are members of good families and are themselves above reproach.

STOCK AND STABLE.

STUDY OF VENTILATION OF INTEREST TO STOCKMEN.

Necessity of Cleanliness, Fresh Air and Sunlight to Produce the Best Results—System to be Used at Pan-American Exposition.

The Pan-American Exposition will prove to be of more genuine benefit to those interested in the proper care of live stock than any previous effort in this direction. Stable construction is a question that appeals with great force to every farmer who is anxious to secure good results. The question of expense is a great barrier to the proper building of this necessity. Unfortunately some of the early examples of good stables were built by men of large means, regardless of what the cost might be. As a result practical farmers were slow to take the matter up, as the idea of a properly constructed stable became at once associated with great expense.

One object of Mr. F. A. Converse, who has charge of the live stock and dairy products at the Exposition, in building a model stable at the Exposition is to counteract this erroneous impression.

A properly constructed stable is not necessarily an expensive one. Cleanliness, fresh air and sunlight, with a modulated temperature, may be obtained in a building of ordinary cheap construction if properly arranged.

A light, cheap framework covered with paper which is protected with a sheathing of very common boarding and covered with a good roof makes a very good start. This should stand on ground that is well drained and exposed to the sunlight, but protected from cold winds. The floor should be of cement and carefully designed to facilitate cleanliness in every particular. Double doors, fly screens and dark blinds should be provided and made to fit properly.

A system of ventilation should be provided that will ventilate. Anything will not do. By excluding the cold and the light ordinarily we also shut out the fresh air, without which no animal can thrive. Many stockmen are careful about the quality of the food, though careless about everything else in connection with the stable. In this manner they are protecting their stock in one direction while leaving them exposed in many others.

Stable air is devitalized by passing through the lungs. It is also being contaminated by chemical decomposition of the excrementum as well as the fumes arising from the fermentation of damp bedding, etc.

To thoroughly understand how to properly ventilate a stable it is necessary to study the circulation of air at changing temperatures, which is governed by fixed laws and may be easily understood. Warm air is lighter than cold air. Generally speaking, foul air is heavier than fresh pure air from the outside, even at the same temperature. Starting from this well known principle, ventilation should be arranged accordingly. Fresh air should be let in at the top and the foul air taken out at the bottom.

By experimenting we find if we smoke a cigar in the middle of a room the fresh air in, the other, the King system, draws the foul air out. As Mr. Converse prefers the latter, that is the system he will demonstrate at the Exposition.

It consists of an air stack with a hood, the opening of which is turned away from the direction from which the wind is blowing. To this main air pipe are attached feeders from different parts of the stable. These feeders have slide openings to admit and carry off the foul air from near the floor at the sides of the stable. Fresh air is admitted through a central opening in the roof.

As the draft that is created by the hooded stack is sufficient to draw the bottom air from the stable, fresh air must go down through the central opening to take its place, and a change of air is a certainty. To prevent the mistake of striking the animals too strong a shield is placed under the opening which assists in directing the flow of fresh air along the ceiling. In this manner it mixes with the warm air that naturally rises in the center of the stable, and all is intermingled and diffused.

With a good stable well ventilated and good feed intelligently fed the winter care of stock should be profitable as well as pleasant.

Epidemics have no bad effects on such stock, and a visit from the board of health has no unpleasant consequences for the owner.

PROFUSION OF LIGHT.

More Than Three Hundred Thousand Lamps at Pan-American.

It has been said that the Pan-American Exposition will be a Rainbow City by day and City of Light by night, and if this be true it should prove the most beautiful sight of its kind ever created for the delectation of the human vision.

Much has been written about the illuminations of the Exposition, but the public is scarcely aware of the magnitude of the scene which is to be created by the use of incandescent lights in such generous profusion about the main court of the Exposition and the buildings immediately surrounding it. When one says that 300,000 of these lights are to be used, the figures look large, but they are nevertheless true. Nor does this include all the lights that are to be used in the general illumination of the Exposition, for on the Midway several concessions, such as the Thompson Aerocycle, Streets of Mexico and some others will use as many as 2,000 lights each. In the buildings and about the border of the grounds will be arc lights, while incandescent lamps will also be used by many individual exhibitors. Thus the figures 300,000 will be considerably increased. The illumination of the Electric Tower is going to be not only astonishing and novel, but truly artistic.

Automobile Exhibit.

The automobile has won such favor that the construction of these vehicles has become one of the important new industries of the world. In any new and prominent field like this the United States, with its wealth of active inventive minds, is expected to take the lead. That this country does lead will be demonstrated by the exhibit made at the Pan-American Exposition.

TOWER ON THE PLAZA—PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.

the smoke goes first to the ceiling, where it spreads in every direction until it reaches the side walls, when it will descend.

This would indicate that we should admit fresh air at or near the center of the ceiling and draw the foul air from the different sides of the room near the base. There are two systems in use in our best stables. One forces

An Instructive Exhibit.

On the street, in the stores, in dwellings, all about, there is evidence of the advancement of that wonderful force, electricity. Is it any wonder that people in all walks of life, of all classes, want to know about it? This is why the electrical exhibits of the Pan-American Exposition are destined to interest and instruct so many.
